

Larry the Lynx...

Introduces Copresco's Revitalized Website Links Area

Copresco has completely revised and updated our website links area to help visitors obtain valuable information and technical tools faster and much easier.

To introduce the new area, we have hired Larry the Lynx, an expert in Internet protocol and communications.

Now, you may wonder what a handsome critter like Larry has to do with digital on-demand printing. "We couldn't think of a better way to tell you about all the cool stuff available on our award-winning website," says Copresco president Steve Johnson.

As Larry says, "The folks at Copresco are so creative and innovative. They just keep making their website better and better. You can't afford to pass up a visit."

Something for Everyone

"The links area has so much to offer," Larry explains. "For your convenience, the links are arranged in various categories in order of importance. Of course, importance presumes that you're interested in digital on-demand printing. But, isn't everyone?"

Larry says that you will find an absolute treasure chest of resources, including links for computer software, patches and fixes, and virus protection. You can download a printer driver, track your package shipment or find a list of search engines. You can even take a color blindness test or peruse Larry's favorite "Just For Fun" link.

Check Larry Out Soon

To get a better idea of what the links area is all about, check out Larry's Statement of Purpose and FAQ. He wrote the copy himself and thinks it's pretty darn good.

So, visit Larry soon. And...good browsing!

(630) 690-2000 • Fax (630) 690-8182

lite@copresco.com • www.copresco.com

Copresco's Bindery Featured

Copresco is featured in the April 2002 issue of Printing Impressions, an international printing trade magazine.

President Steve Johnson is quoted extensively in the "Flying to the Finish" article, which discusses on-demand binding operations.

If you have a copy of the magazine, turn to page 34 and learn more about the wide range of binding styles available for digitally produced publications, books and manuals.

You can also review the story on the magazine's website.

Those Were the Days

Since we are celebrating our 15th anniversary this year, we thought it would be fun to look back at the "Good Old Days."

We'll see how things have really changed in the graphic arts industry.

Black Monday

Many of you know the story about the now legendary day that Copresco opened for business: October 19, 1987.

It has become renowned in business lore as Black Monday – the day the stock market took the biggest hit in history.

Few will remember that we completed our first full month of operation with a total run of 50,000 impressions.

Today, we produce that much in about one hour.

Memorial Day

Copresco will be closed Monday, May 27, for Memorial Day.

Enjoy the holiday weekend.

262 Commonwealth Drive
Carol Stream, IL 60188

Address Correction Requested

4 years old: "My mommy knows everything!"
8 years old: "My mom knows more than your mom!"

14 years old: "Mom acts like she knows everything."
16 years old: "Gosh, Mom, don't you know anything?"
18 years old: "You don't know what's right for me!"
22 years old: "Before we decide, let's get Mom's opinion."
30 years old: "I'll call Mom. She knows everything."

~ ~ ~
As I was turning a corner, my hand slipped and bumped the car horn. My daughter said, "You honked the horn by accident, didn't you, Daddy?"

"That's right, honey," I replied. "How did you know?"

"Because," she explained, "you didn't say 'jerk' afterwards."

Children are natural mimics. They act like their parents in spite of every attempt to teach them good manners.

~ ~ ~
Michelangelo's mother: "You're not going out until you wash that paint off the ceiling!"

~ ~ ~
The science teacher presented a lesson on magnetism, and later that afternoon decided to review what they learned. "My name begins with m and I can pick things up. What am I?"

A little boy in the front row piped up, "A mom!"

~ ~ ~
"All right, Joe," a teacher reprimanded in the hall, "whose class are you cutting this time?"

"Like, uh, see, okay, like it's like I really don't think it's, like, really important," the young teen replied. "I, like, totally don't get anything out of it."

"Oh," responded the teacher, English class."

Where did you get those new golf clubs?" asked Betty. "We can't afford those."

"Don't worry, honey, they didn't cost a thing," answered her husband. "They were marked down from six hundred dollars to three hundred dollars, so I bought them with the three hundred bucks I saved!"

~ ~ ~
After his regular check-up, a man said to his doctor, "I'm thinking about a vasectomy."

"That's a pretty big decision," the doctor warned. "Have you talked it over with your family?"

"Oh, yeah, we voted," the man said. "They're in favor, 15 to 2."

~ ~ ~
I don't trust my doctor. I think he's short of money. After my last visit he told me I was going to need an appendix transplant.

"Sorry I'm late, dear," Betty said. "The car wouldn't start. I think it's flooded."

"Where's the car now?" her husband asked.

She answered, "In the lake."

~ ~ ~
Thomas Edison's mother: "Turn off that light and get to bed!"

~ ~ ~
Bart: "This match won't light."
Art: "What's wrong with it?"
Bart: "Nothing. It worked fine last time."

~ ~ ~
A fire truck zoomed past a school bus, and the kids began pondering why there was a Dalmatian dog on board. "He's for good luck," one boy guessed.

"No," argued a little girl, "he's there for companionship."

"My dad's a fireman," another kid said proudly, "and he says the dog helps find the fire hydrant."