

Thanks for your trust and support...

To Our Valued Customers and Suppliers...

Here we are, facing another busy holiday season and a new year. And, once again, it's the time to thank you for your trust and support of Copresco.

We sincerely appreciate the opportunity to share in your continued success.

Meeting the Challenge

Our goal for 2005 was to give you better service for all your digital printing needs.

We met this challenge by expanding our production capabilities, improving web service and enhancing our technical communications support program.

To provide even faster turn-around of your books and manuals, we installed our fifth Imagerunner digital press.

Production Booster

The Canon 150 boosted Copresco production capacity by 35% and gave us more muscle to handle your high-volume jobs. Our four existing Imagerunners were upgraded to match the high performance of the new digital system.

Major Improvements

Significant changes were made to the Copresco website in 2005 to provide easier access and navigation for our customers and others who visit our site.

Following a beta testing period, we launched a web-based digital files transfer system that offers you the convenience of web access, the simplicity of e-mail and the reliability of FTP.

Maintaining our promise to keep you current with technological advancements, Copresco offered tips on PDF files preparation and workflow, color management, virus protection and document binding.

Industry Honors

Copresco continued to score with awards for the jobs we do for you. We added three more Achievement in Print Excellence awards to our trophy case. That makes a total of seven AIPX awards garnered since the competition was started in 2003.

Website Awards

Copresco's website was honored with three more awards of excellence for its ease of use, communications effectiveness and practical, user-friendly content and tools.

The website, which has received major awards for the past seven years, offers a wide variety of information, fact-filled publications, fast e-mail communication and helpful links.

An Annual Rite

In what has become an annual ritual, Copresco was recognized as a Quick Print Giant and a Top 100 Printer in North America.

In other industry-related news, Copresco president Steve Johnson was appointed to the graphic arts advisory committee for the College of DuPage and assumed new responsibilities for a monthly column in American Printer magazine.

What Matters Most

As we have stated before, awards and honors are nice, and they do validate our work ethic and business philosophy. However, the praise we receive from you about our quality and service is the most rewarding recognition of all.

A Continuing Commitment

In the year ahead, you will see a major upgrade of our digital color printing capabilities and a renewed commitment to improve all aspects of our operations.

We hope to share another successful year with you in 2006.

Happy Holidays

Copresco will be closed Monday, December 26 and Monday, January 2.

Best wishes for a joyful holiday season from the Copresco staff.

As a little boy climbed onto Santa's lap, Santa asked the usual, "And what would you like for Christmas?" The child stared at him open mouthed and horrified for a minute, then gasped, "Didn't you get my e-mail?"

Jean stopped at a fast food restaurant and was fascinated by a sign that offered Fat Free French Fries. She was dismayed when the clerk pulled a basket of fries from the fryer that were dripping with fat. He filled a bag with these fries and put them on her tray. "Just a minute!" Jean said. "Those aren't fat free." "Yes, they are. We only charge for the potatoes. The fat is free!"

A farm boy was drafted into the army. On his first furlough, his father asked him what he thought of Army life. "It's pretty good, Pa. The food's not bad, the work's easy, but best of all, they let you sleep real late in the morning."

"Thanks for the harmonica you gave me for Christmas," Joshua said to his uncle. "It's the best present I ever got." "That's great," said his uncle. "Do you know how to play it?" "Oh, I don't play it," said Joshua. "Mom gives me a dollar a day not to play it during the day and Dad gives me five dollars a week not to play it at night."

Billy and Molly were at Sunday school studying about Noah's ark. On the way home, Billy asked, "Do you think Noah did much fishing?" "How could he?" Molly asked. "He only had two worms."

A boss tells his new employee, "I'll give you eight bucks an hour starting today, and in three months, I'll raise it to ten dollars an hour. So when would you like to start?" The employee replies, "In three months."

A husband went grocery shopping. In addition to the healthful items on the carefully prepared shopping list, he returned with a box of sugar-laden cookies. The man noticed the glare of his wife and said, "This box of cookies has one-third fewer calories than usual." "Why is that?" his wife asked. "I ate a third of the cookies on the way home," he replied.

An archaeologist is the best husband a woman can have: the older she gets, the more interested he is in her.

You know you're living in 2005 when you haven't played solitaire with real cards in years.

Two women were comparing notes on the difficulties of running a small business. "I started a new practice last year," the first one said. "I insist that each of my employees take at least a week off every three months." "Why in the world would you do that?" the other asked. She responded, "It's the best way I know of to learn which ones I can do without."

It's a sure sign of the times when you have a list of 15 phone numbers to reach your family of three.
