

Plant tours are a great way for...

Visitors See Copresco's Digital Print Team in Action

Copresco has a reputation for getting things done when no one else can.

Think we're bragging? Nah, we're just properly equipped to complete projects in hours or days that take others weeks to do.

Copresco has exactly the right combination of people, workflow and equipment to get the jobs done... all under one roof.

Seeing Is Believing

Don't take our word for it. You really need to see our digital print team in action to understand how we accomplish impossible missions.

A Standing Offer

Please accept our standing invitation to you for a personal tour of our premier printing plant.

You will see how we combine a skilled professional staff with advanced technical tools and an innovative digital workflow to produce large projects with incredibly fast turnaround times.

Our Latest Visitors

Recently Copresco hosted several tours from China. The conventional Chinese book-production model uses enormous manufacturing plants located in designated economic zones to produce large orders for export.

Representatives of the Shenzhen Graphic Society came to observe Copresco's business model: small, efficient all-digital production units, centrally located for fast response to changing customer needs and efficient shipping and distribution.

Companies on the tour included Shenzhen Color Printing and Packaging, Shenzhen Hongslord Printing and Packaging, JiaJiexing Group and Shenzhen Debao Tech.

Additional Guests

Other recent international tour groups have included Jason Printing of Zhuhai, Guangxi Publishing & Media Group of Nanning, and Nonparel Press of Sopot, Poland.

Copresco President and CEO Steve Johnson told the groups about our specialization in the digital printing of publications, books and manuals.

All-Inclusive

The full tour included our production department, the digital press room with our new six-press lineup, our bindery, warehousing and shipping facilities, and offices.

Graph Expo 14

The September 28 – October 1 Graph Expo show at McCormick Place would be a perfect time to stop in and see how Copresco gets things done that others can't.

Q: Why do elephants drink?

A: To forget.

The Pastor of a small congregation was trying to find a contractor to paint his church. Because the church fund was low and couldn't pay very much, he selected the lowest bidder. The contractor skimped on materials to save money. He thinned the paint with solvent, and applied only one coat. Within months the paint began to flake away, and the church looked worse than ever. The angry pastor sent this note to the contractor: "Repaint—and thin no more!"

Teacher: "Billy, give us two examples of a pronoun." Billy: "Who, me?"
Teacher: "Very good!"

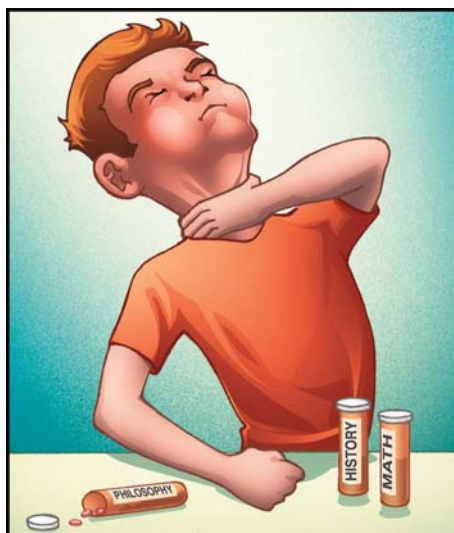

Mathematician: a device for turning coffee into theorems.

I'd like to be an optimist, but I know I wouldn't be good at it.

"Dad," a boy asked his father, "did you go to Sunday school every morning?"
"Sure did, son," the father replied. "Never missed a day." "See, Mom?" the boy said. "It won't do me any good either!"

Q: Why did the whale cross the ocean?
A: To get to the other tide.

In a huge scientific breakthrough, a researcher found a way to package knowledge into pills. He gave a test subject a math pill, and the girl immediately began reciting trigonometric equations. He then gave a history pill to another subject, who began expounding upon the significance of the Spanish Inquisition. Last, he gave a philosophy pill to a third subject, who choked and gagged until his face turned red. "Man!" the student gasped. "That was hard to swallow!"

Old mathematicians never die; they just lose their functions.

A man at the theater was unhappy with his seat. "I have to be close up to watch a mystery," he whispered to the usher. "Get me a better seat and I'll tip you." The usher found him a spot in the second row, and the patron handed him a quarter. The usher looked at the measly quarter in his hand for a moment, then leaned over and whispered, "The wife did it."

Statistician: someone who can have one foot in an oven and the other in a tub of ice and say, "On average, I'm comfortable."

Ralph: "Dad, will you do my math for me tonight?" Dad: "No, that wouldn't be right." Ralph: "Well—you could try."
