'Tis the Season

While jolly folks around the world are wrapping Christmas gifts, Copresco is busy shrinkwrapping your books, manuals and publications.

Bindery Upgrade

We upgraded our shrinkwrapping department with the addition of a new Beseler system to ensure that your digital printing projects arrive in tip-top condition.

With Copresco's shrinkwrapping process, a polymer plastic film is heated as it passes through the heat tunnel of the system.

This causes the plastic to shrink and conform to the shape of the book and creates a tight protective seal.

Well Organized

We can shrinkwrap virtually any of your projects for you. Some of the most commonly wrapped items are looseleaf publications which can be subject to damage in transit if inserted into ring binders before shipping.

Instead the contents are securely shrinkwrapped and packaged with the accompanying 3-ring binders.

Shrinkwrapping individual or multiple perfect or saddle bound books is another application. Wrapping adds an extra layer of protection during shipping.

Yes, Virginia

This yuletide treasure has been featured on Copresco's website since 1994.

It's a child's 1897 inquiry about Santa Claus that puts the whole season into proper perspective.

Is There a Santa Claus?

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" is a phrase from an editorial called "Is There a Santa Claus?"

The editorial appeared in the September 21, 1897, edition of The New York Sun.

Eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the Sun's editor and the quick response was printed as an unsigned editorial.

World Renowned

The work of veteran newsman Francis Pharcellus Church has since become history's most reprinted newspaper editorial, appearing in part or whole in dozens of languages in books, movies, and other editorials, and on posters and stamps.

About Virginia

Laura Virginia O'Hanlon was born on July 20, 1889, in New York City. Although divorced, she kept her ex-husband's surname the rest of her life and was known as Laura Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas.

She received her Bachelor of Arts from Hunter College in 1910, a master's degree in education from Columbia University in 1912, and a doctorate from Fordham University in 1930.

Lifetime Educator

She started her career as an educator in 1912, became a junior principal in 1935, and retired in 1959.

According to reports, she received a steady stream of mail about her letter throughout her life. She would include a copy of the editorial in her replies. In an interview later in life, she credited it with shaping the direction of her life in a positive way.

Share the Treasure

We invite you to share this famous piece with your friends and family during this joyous time of the year.

Address Correction Requested

Many stores hire extra help for the holiday season. That way, customers who don't know what they want are helped by people who don't know where it is.

A husband went grocery shopping. In addition to the healthful items on the carefully prepared shopping list, he returned with a box of sugar-laden cookies. The man noticed the glare of his wife and said, "This box of cookies has one-third fewer calories than usual." "Why is that?" his wife asked. "I ate a third of the cookies on the way home," he replied.

Don't you hate that awkward moment when Santa Claus has the same wrapping paper as your parents!

Q: What's Santa's favorite snack food?
A: Crisp Pringles.

Lisa signed up for a post-holiday exercise class and was told to wear loose-fitting clothing. She responded, "If I had any loose-fitting clothing, I wouldn't have signed up in the first place!"

Q: What do you call a kid who doesn't believe in Santa?

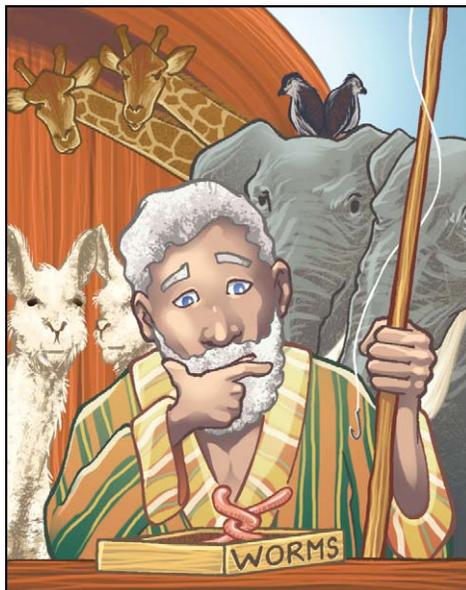

A: A rebel without a Claus.

A boss tells his new employee, "I'll give you 15 bucks an hour starting today, and in three months, I'll raise it to 20 dollars an hour. So when would you like to start?" The employee replies, "In three months."

Billy and Molly were at Sunday school studying about Noah's Ark. On the way home, Billy asked, "Do you think Noah did much fishing?" "How could he?" Molly asked. "He only had two worms."

I should have known the bank was in trouble. The calendar they gave me only went up to March.

Last year I decided to play it safe, and bought my wife a gift certificate for Christmas. She still wasn't satisfied. She said it was the wrong size.

The length of a person's lunch break is directly proportional to the size of his paycheck.

Q: Why does Santa always enter through the chimney?

A: Because it soots him.

The four food groups for bachelors are fast, frozen, junk, and spoiled.
